Issue #95 (4 March 2009)

Stocks markets have turned in another ugly month , so far our expected rally is not materializing. Perhaps too many people are hoping for it. Nasdaq is now barely staying above last year's lows, so we are at a critical juncture again.

Here is the FPF prediction chart for the Nasdaq in 2009.

More predictions charts for other markets, stocks, indices and commodities are available to the registered users of our FPF software program:

(Predictive chart made with FPF 1.1 software, available at <http://www.fourpillars.net/finance/fpf.php>)

Nasdaq

We have fallen back to the low 1300s on the Nasdaq Index.

I still see good chances for some kind of spring rally, possibly up to 1700-1800.

But even if we get that, chances are growing that we are on the way to a major low by June-July expected bottom period for this year.

My best guess target for such a low is 1100, a target we already mentioned in our long term prediction chart last October.

So if you are in the market, I wouldn't sell my stocks at this point.

If you are not in the market, then wait till June to start buying.

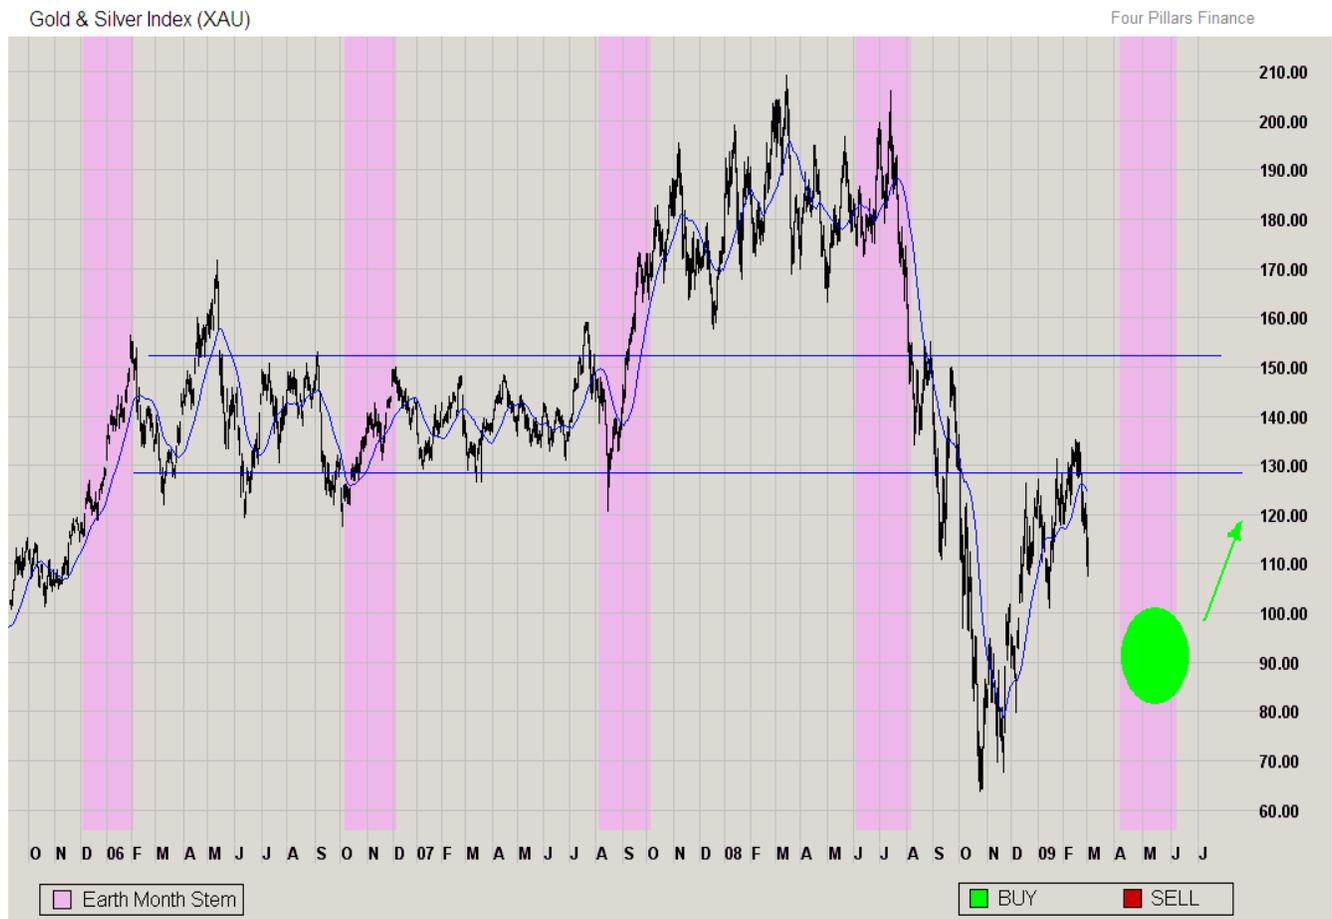

Here is our updated prediction chart for Nasdaq:

Gold

We have been saying for months to get and stay out of gold stocks.
The 130 level goes on capping this market, and now it has dropped back to below 110 already.
If we go down some more here we will be buyers by next April-May, our projected Earth months bottom period for gold.
Be patient.

Here is the updated chart:

Euro - US Dollar

The Euro stays weak.

We could still get a weak rally to 1.35 but this one will probably continue to drift lower.

No changes in the scenario here, we look for a buying opportunity by next August-September.

Crude Oil

Oil prices continues to show signs of stabilization.
Looking for a spring-summer rally, next a low by August-September.
You can buy some already at the current price.
